Lieutenant Governor's Message

As Her Majesty's representative in Nova Scotia, it is my pleasure to welcome you to the 44th Annual Provincial Volunteer Awards Ceremony and Luncheon.

We are so very fortunate to live in a province where volunteering is a way of life. In an age where resources and free time are scarce, we are blessed that so many people selflessly step forward to help others. It is through these acts of volunteerism that many community projects come to fruition and worthy charities and causes succeed. I am delighted to note that this volunteering occurs across all sectors and is performed by people of all ages.

It is important to recognize the valuable work of volunteers so as to ensure that their efforts are never taken for granted and that we collectively express our thanks and appreciation for all that they do.

On behalf of the Queen, I offer my sincere gratitude and best wishes to all volunteers in Nova Scotia – those who we honour at the Awards Ceremony today and those who work quietly in every city, town and community across our wonderful province.

Lieutenant Governor

April 2018

Premier's Message

Every year, thousands of volunteers help to strengthen our communities with work that is close to their hearts. Volunteers are an essential piece of Nova Scotia's fabric as they help the most vulnerable in our society through mentoring, coaching, and numerous other important services. Volunteers help build a stronger, more compassionate and caring Nova Scotia.

This year's award program includes volunteer representatives from Mi'kmaq communities. I appreciate the support of the Chiefs and the Mi'kmaq Physical Activity Leaders, who worked hard to bring forward nominations of volunteers from their community.

On behalf of the Government of Nova Scotia, I am proud to congratulate and thank all Nova Scotians who selflessly give their time and energy. I want to take this opportunity to express my profound gratitude to those receiving an award today—and to the many others who contribute to their communities every day.

You embody the very best of what Nova Scotia has to offer, and today is your day to be recognized with the 2018 Provincial Volunteer Awards.

Sincerely,

Honourable Stephen McNeil, M.L.A.
Premier

Minister's Message

It is my honour and pleasure to welcome you to the 44th Annual Provincial Volunteer Awards ceremony. You have been selected by your community to represent the thousands of volunteers that help make our communities strong and vibrant.

We are fortunate in Nova Scotia to have such a strong tradition of volunteering and helping one another. Our communities have been strengthened by volunteers throughout our province's history; this is something we cannot take for granted.

The act of volunteering, whether it is by serving as a team coach, firefighter, as a board chair, or simply checking in on a neighbour, has significant impact on the lives of many Nova Scotians. Today's ceremony is our way of saying, "Thank you".

Today's annual awards ceremony is an important kick-off to National Volunteer Week. From April 15 to the 21, Nova Scotian and Canadian communities host local volunteer celebrations through luncheons, receptions and awards. I encourage everyone to take a moment to thank the volunteers in your organization and community, as well as the families who support the work of our volunteers.

A heart-felt thank you to this year's volunteer award recipients. Your dedication and efforts are deeply appreciated and felt by all Nova Scotians.

Sincerely,

Leo Glavine
Minister of Communities, Culture and Heritage

THE JOHNSON FAMILY

Thomas J. Johnson Sr., Carol Anne Johnson, Thomas Johnson Jr., Karlee Johnson, Kalolin Johnson, Brandt Johnson, and Laine Johnson

The Johnsons have contributed to the culture and wellbeing of Eskasoni for many years. They have helped on countless occasions across multiple community events including the interact school program, the Mi'kmaq Legal Support Network talking circles, the NADACA dance program, Meals on Wheels community program for elders, as well as being key fundraisers for many causes.

Tom, along with others, was instrumental in starting the Christmas telethon in Eskasoni back in the early 1990s to raise funds for children in need in their community during Christmas. He also always volunteers to set up and run the sound system at community events so it is done professionally.

Together, Tom and his wife Carole Ann have helped for years with the Eskasoni Summer Games, Winter Carnival, Eskasoni Christmas Gala, and the Eskasoni Pow Wow.

Both Tom and Carol Anne believe in the importance of preserving the Mi'kmaq language. They speak it to their children on a daily basis, and encourage them to promote the language through singing and speaking engagements. Together they worked on translating a children's animation movie into Mi'kmaq. Carol Anne, along with other group members, devoted several hours translating the Bible from English to Mi'kmaq.

Tom and Carol Anne have also shared their love of volunteering with their five children. Over the years they've encouraged them to volunteer at community functions and are now proud to see them taking on their own community volunteering and getting their peers involved as well. Their daughters, Karlee, Kalolin and Laine, have performed at a number of events such as singing the national anthem during the Canada Games opening ceremony in Halifax, speaking at the Assembly of First Nations in Ottawa about the Mi'kmaq Immersion program, emceeding for the Eskasoni Telethon and Eskasoni Pow Wow. They even performed in Ottawa for the Rita Joe Literacy Project along with the National Arts Centre Orchestra, at the Summer Games and during the Canada 150 celebrations, just to name a few. Their sons are also highly involved in promoting active lifestyles and volunteer with youth sports such as grappling, jujitsu, hockey and basketball.
