

COVID-19 Exceptions for Domestic Rotational Workers

Directive Under the Authority of the Chief Medical Officer of Health

1.0 Introduction

The goal of COVID-19 Exceptions for Domestic Rotational Workers is to, as much as possible, prevent the introduction of the virus into the province and prevent transmission within the province, while balancing the health and wellness of domestic rotational workers and their families. To do this, government is easing some self-isolation requirements for out-of-province rotational workers when they return to Nova Scotia.

All rotational workers must follow the Public Health Order issued by the Chief Medical Officer of Health (CMOH), dated March 24, 2020, and any direction arising from that Order and directives given under the authority of the Health Protection Act (HPA).

This document provides direction to domestic rotational workers for the prevention and control of novel coronavirus (COVID-19). This directive is based on the latest available scientific evidence about this emerging disease and may change as new information becomes available. The Public Health Agency of Canada will be posting regular updates and related documents at <https://www.phac-aspc.gc.ca/>.

This directive uses the term rotational worker to include a resident of Nova Scotia who has a set schedule where they alternate between living in Nova Scotia and working outside the province, such as an Alberta oil worker. The directive only applies to rotational workers who travel to another province or territory in Canada to work. It does not apply to rotational workers who work outside of Canada.

This directive uses the term household members to refer to those individuals living in the same home on an ongoing basis. Household members includes children under a joint custody order or agreement who visit or live part-time in the household. Household members do not need to self-quarantine as long as they have no symptoms, and they should not be excluded from work or recreational activities.

2.0 Easing Restrictions

2.1 Overview

This directive, given under the authority of the Health Protection Act (HPA), expands the list of allowable activities for domestic rotational workers during their 14-day isolation periods in Nova Scotia.

2.2 Indoor Activities

- Rotational workers may interact with household members.
 - Maintaining physical distance from household members is not necessary unless the rotational worker becomes unwell.
- If the rotational worker or household member becomes unwell, contact 811 [<https://when-to-call-about-covid19.novascotia.ca/en>] or call 811 if it is not possible to do the on-line assessment.
- Spending time at a cabin or vacation home (or a rental location) within the province is allowed, following the same rules as if at home.

2.3 Outdoor Activities

- Rotational workers can spend time outside on their own property, alone or with household members. They may also spend time outside on the property of a single-family cabin or vacation home within the province, following the same rules as if at home.
- Rotational workers can go for a walk, run, hike, or bike ride for exercise and recreation off their property. If the rotational worker encounters people from outside their household, they must wear a non-medical mask and maintain a distance of two metres or six feet.
- Rotational workers can do the following activities without getting out of their vehicle:
 - Go for a drive.
 - Go for a ride on a recreational vehicle (such as an ATV or snowmobile).
 - Drop off and pick up household members at school, work or recreational activities.
 - No-contact pick-up of groceries or other items purchased online or by telephone.
 - Attending a drive-in theatre.

- o Using a drive-thru, for example at a restaurant or bank.
- Rotational workers may also visit a park, beach or other outdoor public space. The space should not be crowded, and if the worker encounters people from outside their household, they must wear a non-medical mask and maintain a distance of two metres or six feet.

2.4 Medical Appointments

- Rotational workers may attend necessary (urgent and routine) medical appointments. This includes medical appointments with physicians and nurse practitioners, dentists, optometrists and other regulated health professionals where in-person treatment is required.
- Rotational workers must wear a mask and coordinate with their care provider to determine additional precautions. If rotational workers are feeling unwell, they must contact 811 as above prior to booking an appointment.
- A list of regulated health professions can be found at <http://www.nsrhpn.ca/member-listing/>.

3.0 Isolation Requirements

3.1 Ongoing Restrictions

The following activities continue to be restricted for rotational workers during their 14-day isolation period:

- Entering public places. This includes, but is not limited to, schools, grocery stores, shopping malls, banks, religious institutions, restaurants/bars, and indoor and outdoor gatherings with people from outside their household.
- Visiting people outside of their household.
- Allowing those outside of their household to visit on their property or in their home while they are isolating.
- Volunteering or working in any capacity that requires them to be in contact with non-household members. This includes volunteer fire departments, due to the potential requirement to isolate multiple firefighters from one community should COVID-19 be identified.

3.2 Monitoring

Prior to each trip to Nova Scotia, rotational workers must complete the Safe Check-in Form online and in advance of arrival at <http://novascotia.ca/travel-checkin>. The daily electronic check-in process has also been updated for domestic rotational workers travelling within Canada to reflect the above allowances.
