

Overview

The Nova Scotia Department of Health Promotion and Protection is providing this bulletin to notify you of a change to the Tobacco Access Act Regulations that will affect you as a current tobacco vendor. Please take a moment to read this bulletin and contact your local tobacco inspector with any questions or concerns. Contact information is included at the end of this bulletin.

Key information

- Bill 62, Amendments to the Tobacco Access Act, took effect on March 31, 2007. This changed the way tobacco and tobacco products can be displayed, promoted, advertised and stored.
- On April 1, 2009, a change was made to the regulations to include a product reference catalogue. This catalogue is a tool for vendors to communicate with customers.
- Most importantly, this change strengthens Nova Scotia's tobacco legislation to better protect the health and safety of Nova Scotians in the long-term.
- While government and health experts continue to believe restricting the promotion, display and storage of tobacco is an important way to protect young people and non-smokers from the marketing practices of the tobacco industry, we also recognize it makes it more difficult for you to share product information with your customers.

About the product catalogue

- You are not mandated or under any obligation to carry a reference catalogue. It is the choice of individual vendors to make this information available to the customer.
- If you are considering making a catalogue available to your customers, you will be responsible for developing the catalogue.

Please keep the following in mind when developing a catalogue:

- Only price information and tobacco product images are permitted.
- Information in the catalogue must be consistent with the requirements of the federal Tobacco Act. As an example, it means any images and wording contained in the catalogue cannot use lifestyle advertising, such as making a connection between outdoor activities and tobacco use (e.g. an image of a skier smoking a cigarette);
- There are no restrictions on the size or dimensions of the catalogue.
- The exterior of the catalogue cannot be an advertisement for a product or brand for sale. It also cannot indicate that tobacco products are for sale. The exterior could simply state, "Tobacco Products Customer Reference Catalogue."
- While the catalogue should remain closed at times when it is not in use by a customer, it could remain on the countertop in a retail environment.
