Appendix A

Rule 26B - Case Management

Scope of Rule 26B

- 26B.01 (1) This Rule 26B continues the practice of judicial management in selected actions.
- (2) This Rule departs from a general principle of procedure that an action is managed by the parties until trial dates are requested.

Appointment

- 26B.02 (1) A judge may order the prothonotary to appoint a case management judge to assist in managing an action.
- (2) The Chief Justice of the court may appoint a judge to act as case manager and as trial judge.
- (3) A case management judge, who has been appointed by the Chief Justice to also act as trial judge, must inquire, at the first conference, into whether a motion is foreseen the determination of which could preclude the case management judge from presiding at trial.

First conference

- 26B.03 (1) A judge who is appointed as case manager must convene a conference with all parties who are entitled to notice as soon as is convenient after the appointment to consider all subjects pertinent to management, including:
- (a) the state of pleadings, a deadline for close of pleadings, and amendments to pleadings;
- (b) the state of disclosure and a schedule for completion of disclosure;

- (c) whether parties know who they require for discovery;
- (d) a schedule for discoveries or a deadline for the parties to be in a position to suggest a schedule;
- (e) information about expert witnesses;
- (f) a schedule for expert witness reports or a deadline for the parties to be in a position to suggest a schedule;
- (g) anticipated motions and whether they should be dealt with in conference or in chambers;
- (h) whether the case manager is precluded from determining an anticipated motion;
- (i) whether trial readiness can be forecasted and, if so, the forecast;
- (j) whether length of trial can be forecasted and, if so, the forecast.

Further case management

- 26B.04 (1) A case management judge must monitor the progress of the action under management by holding further conferences, by hearing motions, by exchanging correspondence, or by other means.
- (2) A case management judge must direct the action towards its conclusion at conferences, at hearings, by correspondence, or by other means.
- (3) A judge who case manages an action, and who has the information a date assignment conference judge would have, may appoint trial dates.

Motions in cases under management

- 26B.05 (1) A case management judge must hear motions made in the action under management, unless one of the following applies:
- (a) the judge is conflicted from hearing the motion;
 - (b) the motion responds to an emergency and the case management judge is not available when the emergency requires;
 - (c) the case management judge is also the trial judge and the case management judge determines that hearing the motion would create a substantial risk of recusal;
 - (d) the case management judge determines there is another substantive reason that precludes the judge from hearing the motion.
- (2) A case management judge who does not hear a motion in the proceeding under management may assist the parties to have the motion heard by another judge at a time, and in a place, suitable to the circumstances of the motion.
